First Civilian Atomic Power Plant Is Started

Ten-Ton Uranium Core to Furnish Energy for Current

By JOHN M. ROACH
United Press Staff Correspondent
SHIPPINGPORT, Pa. (AP)—Construction crews began building in this tiny Ohio river town today the first civilian atomic power plant in this country.

Workmen riding giant earth-moving machinery swarmed over the nearby riverside clearing where President Eisenhower, by waving an atomic "wand" in Denver some 2,000 miles away Monday, activated a remote control tractor shovel to break ground for the 45-million-dollar plant.

Duquesne Light Co. engineers and Atomic Energy Commission officials set late 1957 as the date when the history-making generating station, powered only by a 10-ton core of uranium, will begin piping electricity to homes, schools, and factories in the Pittsburgh area—steel making capital of the world.

Speaking over radio and television to a nation-wide audience and 1,400 perspiring guests and dignitaries at the Labor Day ceremonies here, President Eisenhower made the Shippingport atomic power plant a symbol of the nation's hopes in a world-wide "atoms for peace" plan.

He announced that the U. S. and six other nations had agreed to form an "international agency which will foster the growth and spread of the new atomic technology for peaceful use."

The chief executive said the seven-nation pool, which also includes Belgium, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, South Africa, and France, was "an historic step forward" toward "new avenues of constructive employment, to prosperity, to respite from burdensome toil."

Russia Again Invited
He again invited Russia to join the international effort to make the atom work as mankind's "mighty servant and tireless benefactor."

The crowd at the groundbreaking ceremonies burst into spontaneous cheers as the electronically controlled shovel leaped forward and dug a 30 foot furrow seconds after Mr. Eisenhower interrupted an electrical circuit with his radioactive wand in Denver.

Four other bulldozers and earth moving machines then moved across the clearing, tearing up the ground where the uranium reactor—heat and steam producing furnace of the atomic plant—will be buried in a nest of concrete and steel.

Eugenia Golliher Chosen Tri-State Beauty Queen

Miss Eugenia Golliher, Miss Saline County for 1954, was last night crowned queen of the Tri-State Oil Show held in Memorial Park at Grayville Sunday and Monday. She was sponsored by the Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce.

She competed with 28 contestants from Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky. Miss Nancy Pike of Albion was runner-up and Miss Jane Ennis from Evansville, Ind., placed third.

As winner Eugenia received $300, a beautiful trophy and two dozen red roses. The Harrisburg beauty plans to use the money to further her education. She has enrolled as a freshman at Southern Illinois University this fall where she will study commercial work.

At 9 p. m. Sunday the girls modeled in formal and Monday at 4:30 p. m. in bathing suits. Eugenia, who said "my knees were like water" when announced as winner, was crowned at a dance last night by Norman A. Bretz, chairman of the Tri-State Oil Show. Paul Mason, Grayville, was chairman of the beauty contest.

Each contestant was escorted to the stage by Miss Kay Tucker who is Miss Grayville for 1954.

Miss Golliher, who was also Homecoming queen last year, is five feet, five inches tall, weighs 118 pounds, and her measurements are 37, 24, 36. She is 18 years old.

She was accompanied to Grayville by her mother, Mrs. Velma Golliher, and aunt, Mrs. Alpheus Gustin.

From the summer White House in Denver, President Eisenhower disclosed Monday that the United States and six other nations have agreed to form the agency to "foster the growth and spread of the new atomic technology for peaceful use."

He said "atomic materials for projects sponsored by this agency will be set aside for that purpose." And with a nod to Russia, he expressed the hope that "no nation will long stand aloof from the work of this agency."

When he first launched his atom-for-peace plan last Dec. 8, Mr. Eisenhower urged the Russians to join for the good of mankind. The Allied agreement to go ahead without them only came after they made it clear in months of sporadic negotiations that they definitely would not participate.

Officials said the main purpose of the Allied move is to spur the worldwide development of atomic energy for power, medicine and countless other purposes which will "better man's life."

But they said the agreement also is an emphatic demonstration that the President's plan was no mere propaganda gesture and that the United States is not, as the Communists claim, interested only in creating atomic weapons. For this and other reasons, they said, the goal is a propaganda setback for Russia.

Joining the United States in the initial agreement were Britain, Canada, Australia, South Africa, France and Belgium.

Mr. Perkins resigned to accept employment in private industry, it was said.

Reds Blasted By Chinese in Area of Amoy

Report Nationalists Destroy or Damage 100 Military Junks

By WILLIAM MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Nationalist Chinese announced today that a combined air-sea attack blasted Red artillery and troop barracks near Amoy and destroyed or damaged more than 100 Communist military junks massed around Nationalist-held Quemoy Island.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's air force and navy blasted Red targets in a daylong attack.

The combined forces sank a Red gunboat and five large motor junks. They damaged or sank 100 other war junks, the Nationalists said.

Troop barracks near the Red Chinese port of Amoy were damaged, as were troop emplacements around the port and its surrounding islands.

Hundreds of Nationalist war planes took part in the attacks along with "strong" naval forces, the Defense Ministry said.

Planes Concentrate on Junks
The war planes concentrated on the junks, which probably would be used by the Chinese Communists as invasion craft if they attempt to take Quemoy Island, 15 miles off the mainland and about seven miles from the port of Amoy.

The navy pounded Red artillery positions which had shelled Quemoy.

Heavy explosions and towering flames were reported from hits on artillery and ammunition dumps scored by the Nationalist planes and naval guns. All the Nationalist planes returned safely to their bases, the Defense Ministry said.

No naval opposition was reported.

The Nationalists claimed that a village north of Tatan went up in flames after Nationalist planes raked Red positions there with bombs and rockets and naval guns blasted the area.

The air-sea assault was described by the Defense Ministry as Generalissimo Chiang's first "major retaliation" against the Reds for bombarding Quemoy. Two American officers on Quemoy were killed in the Red shelling.

The combined operations began at dawn and continued throughout the day, the ministry reported.

Civil Defense Appointments For City Made

Council Sets Two Street Improvements For Early Spring

The Harrisburg city council, in session this morning with all members present, gave first reading to a telephone company franchise, appointed personnel to complete an evacuation and welfare center for the civil defense program, approved a street improvement program, accepted the police magistrate's report and approved for payment bills for the month of August.

M. H. Lynch, manager of the local General Telephone Co., presented a copy of the proposed franchise for his company. It was given first reading and a committee of Commissioners Dempsey, May and Tuttle were appointed by Mayor Horning to meet with Mr. Lynch, to go over the franchise in detail and report back at the next meeting of the council.

Harrisburg has been designated as an evacuation and welfare center for certain metropolitan areas by the civil defense program and the council today appointed various persons to head the necessary phases of this program. Ray Altire was designated as chairman.

Appropriations were approved for the repair and improvement of East Sloan street from Main street to Route 34 and for West O'Garra street from Granger street to the cemetery. This repair will come under the Motor Fuel Tax program and contracts will be let in the early spring. Included in the East Sloan street program was the installation of flasher signal lights where the street crosses the New York Central railroad and the railroad will bear half the cost of the light installation.

The police magistrate's report showed fines totalling $243.60 collected last month.

Mt. Moriah Harvests Soybeans In 'Labor Day for Our Church'

By ALTA PORTER

Between 800 and 900 bales of soybean hay were harvested Thursday in a "labor day for the Lord," by the Brotherhood of Mt. Moriah Methodist church, by which the beans were planted and tended and harvested.

While the men worked in the fields to cut, bale and truck the hay to storage, their wives prepared a picnic lunch, which was spread on the lawn at Union Chapel Presbyterian church because it was closer to the bean field than Mt. Moriah.

Incidentally the beans grew on ground owned by a Presbyterian, Paul Drott, who rented it to the Methodist faith. Since the hay is selling in the field at 80 cents per bale and 90 cents if delivered, it looks like the effort was blessed because the earnings will be more than double the quota.

Mt. Moriah is in Brushy township, and has a regular attendance of approximately 40 people. The present building was erected in 1895 and was extensively remodeled and improved about four years ago. Two years ago a similar crop project was carried on to retire the debt on the improvement.

Miss Nannie Baker, 918 South Washington street, Harrisburg, is a granddaughter of one of the founders of the church, Mrs. Martha Blake. Her father and mother, James and Margaret Baker, were also charter members.

She said that Mt. Moriah was the third Methodist church organized in Saline county, and that this is the third building that has been erected.

A church that has always been the center of religious worship and social life in the community, Mt. Moriah has had succeeding generations of members who take pride in keeping in good condition and good financial standing the church in which they were christened, married and their children married, and funerals of their ancestors were held.

The present pastor, the Rev. Irvin Braden, shares time there and at Oak Grove, and was one of the hustling company of men working Thursday to harvest the beans. Others who were active in the project included John Small, Walter Golliher and his son, Walter, Jr., Jack Adams, Clifford Knight, John Winters, Henry Anderson, Lucian David and D. M. Baker, Joe Small, Grover Abney, John L. Baker, Harry Drott and Walter Thompson, Paul Drott and Jewell and Oathner Jackson.

His funeral was held at 2 p. m. at the First Baptist church of Carrier Mills with the church minister, the Rev. Ernest Ammon, conducting the service. Burial was in Sunset Lawn in Harrisburg.

Mr. Miller had been a funeral director in Carrier Mills for more than 50 years and for almost that length of time also had been in the hardware business. His son, Parrish Miller, was associated with him in the operation of the Miller funeral home.

The son of Willis and Rebecca Harris Miller, he was born in Saline county Jan. 29, 1879, and had lived in Carrier Mills all of his life. On May 28, 1905, he was married to Addie F. Ozmert, who survives.

Besides his wife and son, survivors include his son's wife, Jean Malone Miller; a granddaughter, Mary Jean Miller; two sisters, Mrs. Addie Turner of Coal Bank community and Mrs. Ora Shaw of West Frankfort; and several nieces and nephews. A brother, Alfred, and a sister, Mrs. Lela Hutson, preceded him in death.

Active pallbearers were Henry Fife, Freeman O'Keefe, Harry Tanner, Clyde Dallas, Dale Nolen and F. F. Pankey. The honorary pallbearers were John R. Harris, Carl Vance, Ed Williams, George Henderson, Carl Harris, Curtis Capel, Dr. W. H. Dean, Ray O'Neal and Thomas Rushing.

Eight Articles Designed to Halt Reds Approved

Formal Signing of Treaty Expected Wednesday Afternoon

By ROBERT UDICK
United Press Staff Correspondent
MANILA, P. I. (AP)—The eight-nation SEATO conference practically finished its work today and preparations were being made to sign an Asiatic "Monroe Doctrine" treaty at a formal ceremony at 4 p. m. Wednesday.

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported to have placed the "Monroe Doctrine" label on the treaty in secret sessions which hammered out the last details of an agreement designed to protect Southeast Asia against Communist aggression.

The conference agreed today to drop the word "Communist" from a clause defining the type of aggression the eight member nations will guard against.

The United States will sign the treaty with the reservation that it interprets the pact as being designed to halt "Communist aggression."

Article four of the draft, which contains a preamble and nine articles, covers the type of alliance to be formed. This still was in dispute when the conference ended its second session today.

There also was some question as to whether phrases of "self determination" and "anti-colonialism" should be in the preamble or in a separate article.

Eight articles have been approved, informed sources said. These are:

1. A stipulation that international disputes should be settled in keeping with United Nations charter terms.

2. An agreement that treaty members will work separately and jointly through self-help and mutual aid to strengthen themselves to repel aggression from within and without their borders.

3. A call for co-operation in the development of economic measures between member states and other free countries to promote economic stability and well being.

4. Still unsettled.

5. An agreement setting up the Southeast Asian Collective Defense Treaty Council.

6. A stipulation that the treaty will not conflict with the rights and responsibilities of the members under the UN charter.

7. Terms for the entry of new members into the organization. The Philippine government is designated as the depository for documents on this matter.

8. This article defines the area of Asia to be covered by the treaty.

9. An agreement on the life of the treaty—which will be for an indefinite period. This article also provides for the withdrawal of original members upon a one year notice.

Nations represented at the conference are the United States, Britain, France, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan and Thailand.

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The Laugh Parade: A recent thriller, "Gorilla at Large," took Anne Bancroft and a movie stunt man dressed as a gorilla to a Long Beach, Calif., amusement park.

Just as the director instructed the hairy beast to lift Anne off her feet, two Pacific Fleet sailors sailing without a ship staggered into camera range and blinked at the sight.

"Hey, Hank, don't look now," exclaimed one of the gobs, "but here comes the admiral with a terrific brunette."

From Europe comes a Frank Sinatra yarn that's said to be one of the favorite stories of Pope Pius.

When His Holiness received Sinatra at the Vatican, he decided that it would be interesting to know whether the thin star sang baritone, bass or tenor.

"Tell me," the Pope said to Frank, "what do you sing?"

"Oh," Sinatra is reported to have answered casually, "things like 'Ole Man River,' 'Candy' and 'The Birth of the Blues.'"

ACTORS ON WARNERS' "The Silver Chalice" set were given a breather during the revision of a scene involving ancient Christians and Hebrews. When the new dialog was ready, the actors playing members of both faiths were lined up facing each other and the director paroled out new speeches.

Suddenly Joseph Wiseman, New York stage actor who was playing a venerable Hebrew, piped up: "No fair, you're throwing the LINES to the Christians!"

Dan Duryea was handed a script by his agent with the news that there was a great sympathetic part for Dan.

"You mean I'm not a killer, and I live through the film?" said Dan. "Well, not exactly," was the agent's reply. "You are a killer and you die."

"Then how can it be sympathetic?"

"That's the beauty of it," said the agent. "You die from overeating."

CECIL B. DEMILLE tells this one on himself.

Five times a Paramount makeup man had shown him beards he'd

"Try again," said DeMille, "and bring it to me any time you think it's right."

A couple of days later the makeup man phoned DeMille's office, then hung up dismayed. A new beard was ready but DeMille was out of town. Turning to a fellow worker in the makeup department, the exasperated artist explained:

DeMille's gone for the weekend to Paradise which, unfortunately, is only the name of his ranch."

At the airport nine-year-old Ethel, who doesn't fare well in planes, began to turn shades of green at the sight of the big air ships taking off. While 12-year-old Robert smirked at his sister's discomfort, Ethel attempted to cheer up the girl.

"Just think," she said, "you're on a seven-and-a-half hour, non-stop flight to New York, darling."

"Yeah," echoed Robert fiendishly, "seven and a half hours, and you're going to THROW UP all the way."

Comedian Dave Barry was complaining about his home.

A Ride Is an Education!

There has never before been a time—since the beginning of the automotive industry—when you could learn as much about motor car performance in a single hour as you can today!

All you need do is slide behind the wheel of a new 1954 Cadillac—and head for the open highway.

That great Cadillac engine introduces you to a new measure of power and performance. It takes even the most challenging hills in easy stride—and sweeps you out of a difficult traffic situation with only the slightest pressure on the accelerator.

Cadillac's improved Hydra-Matic Drive is unbelievably responsive and silken and smooth—and takes you from a standing start to your desired rate of speed in one continuous flow of power.

You guide the car with only a feather-light touch on the wheel. It seems almost to follow the weight of your hand around the corners—and it takes you over the winding highway as if it were reading your mind.

Vision is so wide and clear that a single, sweeping glance acquaints you with traffic on every hand. Braking is unbelievably sure and easy. And you ride in such comfort and quiet that you seem to be resting in your favorite easy chair.

Yes, it's an education to take the wheel of a 1954 Cadillac—an education in all the good and wonderful things of motordom.

So stop in any time—slip into the driver's seat—and head for your favorite stretch of highway. You're in for the greatest surprise of your motoring life!

A heavy fist banged on the of-fice door and a hoarse voice shout-ed, "Miss Lily—come out and see what's happening."

Lily exclaimed in sudden anger, but stepped past Tancred and pull-ed open the door. "What is it?" she cried to the bartender who had knocked on the door.

"I spent several hours riding around, talking to some of them. And so did some other people on Miller's side. I thought they were n't going to show up, but they did."

He started to go out, then stop-ped. Her eyes met his. "This is it?"

"I won't be here tomorrow." The door was open and in the saloon proper a stream of men were pouring toward the front door. Lily laughed. "All right, then." He nodded and went out.

When Tancred reached the street, some of the farmers had already gone into the marshal's office, but at least 25 or 30 were still outside, some on horses, some in farm wagons. All were armed.

They were quiet, but their eyes were defiant as they faced the crowds that had poured out of saloons on both sides of the street.

Tancred pushed through the crowd of Texas men and towns-people and crossed to the farm-ers. He recognized one of the men as one he had spoken to that aft-ernoon.

"We didn't think it was healthy to come in one by one," the man told Tancred. "We met outside of town and came in a body."

Luke Miller came into the print shop a few minutes before seven and found Tancred sitting on the cot. "We won," exulted Miller. "We won by a margin of 27 votes. The farmers did the trick. Tomor-row there'll be a new council, a new sheriff, a new judge. . . ."

"And a new mayor!" Miller clapped Tancred on the shoulder.

"There are going to be some changes in Sage City. It isn't go-ing to be Jacob Fugger's private town any more. I've got to go home now. We're having a meet-ing later."

"I figured you were in when I saw the farmers."

Miller starting off, stopped. "By the way, I don't think I saw you vote."

"I didn't. When I got ready there was too much of a crowd there."

"That's a fine business," Miller chuckled. "Well, your vote wasn't needed, as it turned out, but don't let any of our friends know you didn't vote."

"I won't," Tancred said. Miller left the print shop and Tancred, drawing a deep breath, stood and drew out his carpetbag from under the cot. He stepped to the wall and took down his coat from the nail on which it hung. He put it on and without looking back, left the shop.

It was almost dark outside and no one paid any attention to Tancred as he walked to the livery stable. He entered and found the attendant forking hay for the horses.

"Here's that $100," he said. The man's mouth fell open. "What $100?"

"The price of that horse," said Virginia Dare, the first white child born in America, was born on Roanoke Island, Va., which now is part of North Carolina.

went by. Hunched in the saddle, he rode out of town.

Dave Helm had lived so long in Texas he had gotten out of the habit of walking. Luke Miller lived less than two blocks from Fugger's Store where he had received his instructions and his directions, but Helm mounted his horse outside the store and walked it down South Street, then right, past the Star printing office and, counting, to the fifth house on the right.

It was a square little house of no more than three rooms. It was nicely painted and reminded Helm of the houses in Missouri that were so unlike the Texas homes . . . and which he had not seen for many years.

Helm dismounted in front of the house and, stepping on the little veranda that was raised a few inches from the ground, knocked on the door.

A man opened the door and looked inquiringly at him.

"Is this the residence of Mayor Miller?" Helm asked, politely.

"I'm Luke Miller, yes," was the reply.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Miller," Helm said. "There's nothing personal about this. It's a job of work, that's all."

He drew his revolver. Shoek hit Miller.

Helm raised the revolver and fired.

IT HAPPENED IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS: Folk Remedies Used in Earlier Days

By JOHN W. ALLEN
Southern Illinois University
The word asafetida is hard to spell. The substance named, however, is not hard to smell. In earlier days it was smelled right often.

Then, it was a common belief and perhaps a justifiable one, that a lump of asafetida tied in a cloth and worn on a string about the neck was a safeguard to the health of the wearer. The offensive odor of the charm kept most persons at a distance, thereby lessening the likelihood of infection. The wearer, constantly afloat in the vile odor, soon appeared to take no notice of it.

People now smile at such old beliefs. Nevertheless, some practices of folk remedies persist. Perhaps an occasional bit of the old lore has a basis of justification. Other bits are obviously only superstitions.

The following items, taken at random from the great body of medical folklore, may be considered as representative ones. However, no "satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded" warranty, "expressed or implied," is given for any of them.

From the number of and variety of remedies concerning it, rheumatism must have been a common ailment. There were many ways, however, by which it could be relieved or cured. One simple remedy only required that an Irish potato be carried in the pocket until it had dried to about the hardness of a rock. Thus dried, its effectiveness was great and constant.

Tea made from the bark of a wild cherry tree was another popular remedy. To be most effective, the bark used, in fact any bark of any kind used for medicinal purposes, was best if peeled with a downward stroke, from the south side of a tree growing on the north slope of a hill.

If the taste of the cherry bark tea was too disagreeable, some of the bark could be put into a bottle of whiskey, but never so much that the delightful tang of the whiskey was impaired. An occasional sip of this blend or of poke-berry wine (formula not found) offered almost sure relief. Even wearing a brass finger ring helped some. Should the above fail to afford relief, the rheumatic one could wear red flannel underwear and rub the affected parts with rattlesnake oil. Other oils or greases could be substituted with about the same effect.

If the ailing person did not have the rattlesnake oil called for, he could secure the same results by drinking any of these three mixtures should have made the victim forget his ailment.

If these remedies failed, the victim of rheumatism could secure results by a simpler and perhaps less repulsive process. When it was time to retire at night, he could simply sit on the side of the bed, remove the left shoe and place it under the edge of the bed to his right with the toe pointing out. The right shoe was then placed in a similar manner on the left side. It apparently made no difference which shoe was removed first, but changing sides was essential. Some thought that equal results could be secured if the shoes were removed while sitting in a chair and placed on either side of it as indicated.

"Bad colds" came in for a host of remedies, naturally beginning with those considered as preventatives. Windows and doors were closed to keep the harmful night air out. A hot toddy was taken just before retiring, a swig upon arising, or perchance both were taken. Vinegar, brown sugar or sorghum, and black pepper were brewed together and taken before going to bed. The feet were soaked in hot water. Other remedies were invoked, depending upon the availability of materials and the tastes and faith of the individual.

Once the cold definitely had been acquired, available remedies increased in number. If caught in the "sore throat" stage, a wool sock, preferably one that had been worn recently, was pinned about the neck. This remedy was more effective if the sock and throat were lubricated with goose grease. In the absence of goose grease, possum oil or mutton tallow could be substituted. Turpentine, kerosene or some other ingredient was sometimes added to the basic grease.

Should the cold settle in the chest, another chain of remedies was suggested. The chest was greased. Poultices or plasters were sometimes applied. A woolen jacket or vest was placed on the patient next to his body. When the cold definitely had been conquered, it was thought best to remove this jacket by degrees, cutting an inch or so from the bottom of it each day.

There were literally hundreds of remedies for colds, perhaps enough

Report Lathan Seen, Shot at Near Vienna

Three Negro Places Burn; Officers to Investigate Cause

VIENNA, Ill. (AP)—A posse reportedly sighted Thomas L. Latham, a Negro accused of murdering an elderly woman here, in a woods south of Vienna Monday night and a citizen member of the posse shot at him.

Sheriff's officers and state police continued the search in a heavy rain today for Latham, 31, who escaped from jail here last week where he was held on a murder charge for the death of Mrs. Maggie Gray, 82.

Meanwhile, authorities said an investigation will be made into fires which burned down three Negro shanties here Monday. The investigation sought to determine whether the fires resulted from a nearby grass fire or were set deliberately.

Feeling has run high against Negroes here since the death of Mrs. Gray from injuries received in the beating she received during the break-in at her home Aug. 2. Latham was held in the Williamson county jail at Marion following his arrest for safekeeping.

Mrs. Gray's granddaughter also was beaten in the early morning attack. Latham also was charged on four other counts in connection with the break-in and attack. He was brought here Aug. 31 to await appearance in court to enter his plea. He escaped from his cell the same day, probably by springing a lock, authorities said.

If your small youngster is to be kept in bed for a few days, you can cut down on disturbing noises by putting a muffler on the door bell. Wrap the hammer of the bell in cloth or slip a glove finger over it.

Bank Robber Gets 'Just Big Stuff'

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A lone robber stuck a pistol in a bank teller's face, asked for "just the big stuff" and escaped with an estimated $32,000 here today.

Police said they lost track of the robber after he abandoned his getaway car, apparently for another machine, about two blocks from the Southern Commercial & Savings Bank in South St. Louis.

Mrs. Lorraine Waller, a teller at the bank, said the man approached her cage in full view of 30 or 40 other patrons. She said she tried to give him some $1 bills when he announced that it was a holdup, but he shoved them back and said: "Just give me the big stuff."

The robber put the money in a briefcase and backed out the door. Bank officials said the bank was crowded and there was an unusually large amount of money in each teller's cage because of the post-holiday rush.

School Buses Ready To Roll

Thousands of Illinois school buses like the one pictured above will be on the road again this month as the 1954-1955 school year begins. Standards of safety are higher in Illinois than those required nationally and are supervised by the office of Vernon L. Nickell, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

SPRINGFIELD—More than 7000 drivers will take the road in yellow and black school buses this month as the 1954-1955 Illinois school year begins.

The "good old days" when the rural student often had to hike several miles to his school are gone now. This year more than a quarter of a million children will be taken to school and back home again each school day.

Most school buses, now a familiar sight on Illinois highways, are owned and operated by the local school districts. The safety of every bus and its passengers is the keynote of the pupil transportation program and is rigidly supervised by the office of Vernon L. Nickell, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Standards of safety and comfort for Illinois children far exceed the national requirements. A 15 page circular issued by Nickell's office even covers such specifications as the depth of the seat cushions and the design of the door latches.

Local school district officials shoulder the responsibility of keeping the buses in top condition to meet exacting state safety inspections twice a year. They also train the children in emergency drills and screen and hire responsible drivers.

Nickell's office sets standards for safe operation of the buses and works with the Illinois General Assembly for laws that add to their safety while on our highways.

The result of this cooperation

AROUND SPRINGFIELD

Herman Nofs, on State Police Force Since Beginning, to Retire Sept. 15

By DON E. CHAMBERLAIN
SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The state's right to collect a utility sales tax on out-of-state corporation gas sales to Illinois industrial users is involved in an appeal listed on the State Supreme Court's docket for decision next month. It involves an estimated $1,500,000 in taxes which the company—the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation—has paid the state under protest.

The company contends its Illinois sales, chiefly to industries in St. Clair and Madison counties, constitute sales in interstate commerce and therefore are exempt from the utility tax. The Illinois attorney general's office, however, argued before the high court in May that the sales are not in interstate commerce, and that even if they were, they are not exempt.

Also on the advisement docket at the September term is an appeal which involved the validity of the state's new driver license law. The appeal is from the decision of Cook County Circuit Court Harry M. Fisher who held that the new law is invalid because it gives the Secretary of State too much unregulated power in revoking licenses.

The Cook decision was handed down last February. Meanwhile, however, Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter has continued to administer the law and revoke licenses because Fisher withheld from his opinion an order to stop the secretary from enforcing the law. The appeal was in the case of Anthony Mancezak, 30, Chicago, whose license was revoked after a drunken driving conviction.

Efforts of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company to obtain increased phone rates, said to amount to $22,800,000 a year, also will be passed on by the high court. They are rates originally sought by Bell in January, 1951, but which have been in litigation for several years. They are not to be confused with a new request which is pending with the commission.

Also up before the court this month is the petition of George Glackmeier, Jr., for a rehearing of the tribunal's May term decision declaring H. V. Calhoun the winner of the Belleville, April, 1953, mayoralty election. The petition questions the high court's interpretation of the state election law on the question of whether a polling official must place all his initials or can use just one initial on a ballot.

Glackmeier seeks to have the vote of one precinct thrown out on the ground that the ballots were not properly initialed by the polling judges. In petitioning for a second review of the case Glackmeier said that the high court based its ruling on a Michigan case which "is not at all similar in facts" to the Belleville contest.

Oldtimers on the Illinois State Police Force which was created in 1923 are getting scarcer. They're now down to a handful of the original force and one of them, Herman Nofs, will go on retirement September 15, after more than 40 years of service. Nofs, now 60, has been in the force since its beginning. He worked under seven governors—Small, Emmerson, Horner, Stelle, Green, Stevenson and Stratton.

Still state policemen after 24 years of service are Assistant Superintendent Harry T. Trautsch, Springfield, and Capt. Everett Van Diver, Rushville. Other veteran state policemen are Lieut. George Keulke, East St. Louis; Clark Denney, Greenville; Lieut. Gilbert Enater, Joliet; Lieut. Don Barnes, Elgin; Sgt. Frank Liptak, Streator; and Patrolman Peter Perodotti, Homewood.

Nofs, a one-time resident of Elgin but now of Springfield, is the survivor of a group of less than a dozen men who comprised the original force as it was created by the late Gov. Len Small of Kankakee. John Stack, a former Kankakee county sheriff, was the first chief, and he operated from an old building in Kankakee. Today it is a streamlined force of 550 men and growing.

Nofs started out as a $150 patrolman and now holds a captain's rating. Since joining the force in December, 1923, Nofs has served under a dozen chiefs including Stack, Walter Moody, Leo Carr, Walter Williams, L. M. Taylor, Jess Grissom, Harry Yde, Harry Curtis, Thomas O'Donnell, now a Chicago police captain, and Phil Brown, former Iroquois sheriff and the present chief.

The first progressive step in the state police system, Nofs said, was under the late Gov. L. L. Emmerson who added squad cars to the half a dozen motorcycles. Radio equipped patrol cars were added in the administration of the late Gov. Henry Horner who also put into effect a three-shift system, set up command districts and inaugurated the first weapon-training course.

The next advance, Nofs said, was under former Gov. Dwight H. Green who installed special police training schools. Under former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson the school training was further developed and a merit system established. Today under Gov. William G. Stratton, the training school and merit system is considered the last word in police development.

Nofs says the merit system has developed the force into a career group by eliminating "harmful" political influence in selection of applicants for jobs. He said "it was a political force for a long time as the political axes fell under changing administrations. I guess I was lucky. I was only one of five officers who stayed on when Horner took over in the depression."

The 1952 riot at Menard State Prison was Nofs' "toughest" and most grim assignment. He also was prominent in a crack down on a ring of liquor hi-jackers in Peoria in Emmerson's day. State police raids under the direction of former Atty. Gen. John Cassidy, Peoria, during the Horner regime.

Nofs' plans for the future are tentative. He contemplates moving to Los Angeles, Calif., although he says he will always regard Illinois, Springfield and Elgin as "home."

Springfield Mayor John MacFarland in tribute to Nofs' long career has named him a civilian defense police coordinator. Gov. Stratton and State Police Chief Phil Brown have commended him for "outstanding and faithful service."

Holiday Violent Death Total More than 500

354 Die in Traffic Mishaps, Lowest Figure in 6 Years

By United Press
More than 500 persons died violently during the Labor Day weekend and the traffic death total was the lowest in six years, a survey showed today.

Traffic deaths totaled 354 for the period from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Monday, the lowest for a three-day Labor Day holiday since 302 were killed in 1948. Drownings accounted for 85 deaths, plane crashes killed 13 and miscellaneous accidents 59 for an overall total of 511.

The National Safety Council said the traffic death total, though tragic, was "definitely encouraging because it followed a downward trend of traffic deaths in America." Surveys have shown that 300 to 325 persons are killed during a three-day, non-holiday summer week end, depending on the weather. The safety council had made a pre-holiday estimate that 390 persons would be killed in traffic.

The past week end's death toll started out at a slow rate Saturday, shot up Sunday night and Monday morning, then suddenly tapered off.

Texas led all the states with 25 traffic deaths. California and Michigan each had 22, Illinois 21, New York and Missouri each had 18, Kentucky 15, and Ohio 14.

Accidents took the lives of 39 persons in Illinois, 21 in automobile accidents, and five by drowning. Four were killed in miscellaneous accidents.

Connecticut Lady Wants Recognition

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 7.—A pretty girl in a bathing suit threatened to picket the Miss America pageant again today because officials refused to recognize her as "Miss Connecticut."

Miss Violet Fuchs, a 23-year-old former WAC corporal from Middletown, Conn., marched into pageant headquarters Monday, announced she was the "legal Miss Connecticut," and said she had a court order to back her claim.

But pageant officials said Miss Dorothy Anne Hopkins, a petite 18-year-old blue-eyed blonde from Storrs, Conn., was the authorized entry from the New England state.

Officials demanded that she return the entry badge which she picked up at pageant headquarters. But Miss Fuchs, who is five feet six and measures 34-24-35, was adamant.

"You can't have it," she said. "It was given to me. I'm Miss Connecticut."

Miss Lenora Slaughter, pageant director, smiled during Miss Fuchs' outburst and then said she was "sorry" but "you are not Miss Connecticut. You had a lot of nice publicity and I know you are enjoying it. Continue to enjoy it, but you are not Miss Connecticut. I want the badge back."

Miss Fuchs, who served with the medical corps in the Far East during the Korean fighting, stormed out with the threat of launching a one-woman war.

Miss Fuchs' claim to the title stems from her winning several local contests staged by Alfred Patricelli, who said his franchise to promote the Miss Connecticut contest for many years had been revoked by the Miss America officials.

Patricelli said he went to court after the franchise was turned over to the state's Junior Chamber of Commerce and got an injunction halting the Jaycees from using the "Miss Connecticut" title. The Jaycee candidate, however, was selected to represent the state. Patricelli has filed a $250,000 damage suit in New Jersey against the pageant officials.

Mechanic Dies, 8 Hurt in Crash At Du Quoin

Racer Loses Tire,
Car Overtakes in Pit;
Sam Hanks Wins Race

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—A racing car mechanic was killed and eight persons were injured when a racer lost a tire, collided with another car and overturned in a pit at an AAA championship Labor Day race.

A car driven by Roger Ward, Los Angeles, Calif., lost a tire and locked wheels with the car of Chuck Stevenson, Garden City, Calif. Ward's racer went into a spin and smashed into open pits at the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds.

Clay Smith, 39, Los Angeles, a mechanic for Stevenson, was killed instantly when Ward's car overturned in the pit.

Sam Hanks, Glendale, Calif., won the 100-mile event when it was called off at the 83-mile mark after the accident. Stevenson brought his car out of the sideswipe and finished second. Jimmy Bryan, Phoenix, Ariz., was third.

Ward walked away from the wreck. He was taken to a hospital for observation but was released. Among the injured were two youngsters from Elkhart, Ind., who were watching the race from the infield pits. One of them, Jerry Sievers, 14, suffered a broken arm. James Beatty, 12, was treated at a hospital and released.

The injured who remained hospitalized today included Dave Bover, 23, Speedway City, Ind., a mechanic; Leonard Woolford, Columbus, Ind.; Karl Hall, 42, Orleans, Ind., a race car owner; and Paul Brooks, Elizabethtown, Ind.

About 12,000 spectators at the Du Quoin State Fair witnessed the accident on the one-mile dirt track.

The bull unexpectedly turned, charged the former art student and gored her in the groin.

Seixas Cops Men's Singles Title; Doris Hart Wins Women's
FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—The turning in a long, long road of disappointment and frustration has come at last for two somewhat dazed tennis veterans named Vic Seixas and Doris Hart.

For 31-year-old Vic and 29-year-old Doris have at last won the national tennis championships they had come close to winning a total of seven times before.

Moreover, in addition to winning the singles titles in Monday's final round competition at storied Forest Hills, they each scored a "grand slam"—Seixas winning a share in the men's doubles crown, Miss Hart a share in the women's doubles crown, and then joining for still a third championship in mixed doubles.

For Seixas, the "end-of-the-rainbow" came when he rallied for a first-set walloping to whip Rex Hartwig, the favored Australian, in surprisingly easy fashion, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Miss Hart succeeded to the title left vacant when 1953 champion Maureen Connolly broke a leg in a riding accident by fighting off three match points to defeat Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-8, 6-1, 8-6.

Milwaukee First N. L. Team to Draw 2 Million; 2,001,091 Thru Monday
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves of 1954 are the first National League team in history to draw two million fans in a season.

Monday's holiday crowd of 43,207 at County Stadium pushed the Braves' home attendance for the season up to 2,001,091. The Braves have six more home dates this year.

The only other teams to pass the two-million mark were the Cleveland Indians of 1948 with the all-time record of 2,620,627 and the New York Yankees of 1948 with 2,373,901.

Braves Back in Race, Take Pair from Cubs as Giants Split and Dodgers Drop 2

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press Sports Writer
The irrepressible Milwaukee Braves, who keep bouncing back like a slap-happy boxer with an iron jaw, levelled their best punches today at the title-hungry New York Giants as the "old champ" Brooklyn Dodgers appeared about counted out.

On Labor Day, 1954, time was running out, too, on those other battle-scarred champs, the New York Yankees, who are finding the pangs of old age too much of a handicap in their pennant bout with the spirited Cleveland Indians.

As a result of the heavy holiday strife, the "magic number" for the Indians was 13 and for the Giants 16. That meant any combination of Cleveland victories and Yankee defeats that added to 13 would clinch the pennant for the Indians. The same situation prevailed around the number 16 in the National league.

The Indians, with a 4 1-2 game lead over the Yankees, appeared to be in a safer position than the Giants, who lead the Braves by four and the Dodgers by five. The Yankees have only 17 games left to catch Cleveland, while Milwaukee has 19 to catch the Giants.

Braves Take Second Place
While the Giants divided a double-header with the Philadelphia Phillies, the Braves vaulted into second place by sweeping the Chicago Cubs, 13-2 and 6-1, and the dispirited Dodgers were bounced twice by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-6 in 12 innings, and 9-7. The Giants won the opener from the Phils, 8-4, but lost the nightcap, 5-4, in 11 innings to Robin Roberts' 20th victory of the season.

In the American league, both the Indians and Yankees split twin bills. Bob Lemon beat the Orioles, 6-1, with his 21st triumph in the opening game, but Dick Kryhoski's 10th-inning bases-loaded single gave Baltimore a 3-2 nightcap win.

Jimmy Piersall ruined the Yankees' hopes of gaining ground when he wallowed a two-run eighth-inning homer that enabled the Boston Red Sox to win the second game, 8-7. New York won the opener, 6-5, when Andy Carey singled with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Mathews Paces Braves
There were many who scoffed that the Braves were playing "over their head" when they went on a rampage last month and climbed to within 3 1-2 games of first place on Aug. 15. And there were many "I told you so's" when they slumped and dropped back 7 1-2 games off the pace as late as Aug. 31.

But here they are again within striking distance of the lead, with a nine-game winning streak, and with slugger Ed Mathews on a hitting spree. Mathews collected eight hits Monday, including his 35th homer, a double and three singles in the opening game.

Hank Thompson drove in three runs with a homer and two singles in pacing the Giants to their win over Philadelphia. However, Roberts made it 29 victories for the fifth straight season with a six-hitter in the second game.

Skinner Hits Grand Slammer
Bob Skinner hit a grand slam homer in the Pirates' first-game triumph over Brooklyn and Billy Loes walked two batters with the bases loaded in the 12th to force home the deciding runs. Pittsburgh routed Don Newcombe with a five-run outburst in the first inning of the nightcap.

Harvey Haddix finally won his 16th game after being knocked out of the box seven straight times, pitching the St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-1 triumph over the Cincinnati Redlegs in the only single-game program in the majors.

The Detroit Tigers swept a double-header from the Chicago White Sox, winning the opener, 9-1, and Ned Garver's four-hitter and the second game, 3-2, on Harvey Kuenn's 10th-inning single. The Washington Senators won the opening game from the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-1, on Johnny Schmitz' three-hitter, but lost the nightcap, 3-2, when reliever Ed Bertschy snuffed out an eighth inning, bases-loaded rally.

Marciano Rests Over Labor Day
GROSSINGER, N. Y. (AP)—Heavy-weight champion Rocky Marciano, who defends his title against Edward Charles on Sept. 15, spent the Labor Day Holiday perfectly at ease. Marciano, who weighs 188 pounds, took a leisurely automobile ride and watched the Yankees-Red Sox double header on television.

QUICK CHANGE—Jeannie Johnson, 19, left, had everything to be "Miss Chicago" except one thing—she wasn't officially a Chicagoan. As a result she had to turn the crown over to Reggie Dombek, right. Officials said Jeannie didn't have the required six months' residence when she won the contest.

STOPPED—Tugo Portuguez waved his gloves in the air protesting Ray Miller's stopping his scheduled 10-round fight with Moses Ward of Detroit in the fifth at Madison Square Garden. Far behind, the Costa Rican middleweight had been jolted back toward the ropes, but the referee was criticized for acting hastily.

Merchants Win Two Over Labor Holiday

Beat Johnston City, 12-4, Then Win at Cartersville, 6-4

The Harrisburg Merchants won a pair of baseball games over the holiday week-end, drubbing Johnston City 12-4 Sunday afternoon here and journeying to Cartersville to edge the Stars 6-4 on Labor Day.

Billy McNew hurled the Merchants to the Johnston City win, pitching five scoreless innings after relieving Buzz Kennedy, who tired in the fifth frame.

The local hitters supported their hurlers with a blistering 14-hit attack spearheaded by Fred Williams, Dick Romonosky and Jim Parton, who had three safeties each. Harold Guley delivered a bases-loaded triple in the Merchants' big seventh which was followed by a triple by teammate Parton for the locals' only extra-base blows.

Romonosky was behind the plate all the way for the local line.

The Merchants tallied in the first inning on an error, a hit batsman and a base hit but the count was knotted in the second stanza when Charlie Bray lined one into the lagoon for Johnston City. The locals scored again in their half of the second when Kennedy and Williams hit safely after Bynum was on by an error.

J. C. had Kennedy on the ropes in the fourth as Bray tripled to deep left center and crossed the plate on Roddon's ace. Samples and Trapani paired singles to score Roddon before the left-hander retired the side.

The Merchants forged ahead in their half when the J. C. infield committed a pair of errors and Romonosky hit safely.

Harrisburg, going into the seventh with a 5-1 lead, broke loose to score five runs and ice the game while J. C. was having trouble with McNew's hurling. Bray started on the mound for J. C. but had to leave in favor of McKee, who later was replaced by Briggs.

Monday afternoon the locals won at Cartersville in a tilt that was marked by numerous good defensive plays. Fred Bynum, local left fielder, copped all defensive honors with three great running catches that brought the locals their 14th win of the season.

Dick Romonosky, who had to be relieved behind the plate for the first time this year, blasted a long home run to right in the first inning with a mate aboard for the third of the season. Dick was replaced by McNew, and Romonosky finished the game in right field.

Hensley of Cartersville made a great catch of Romonosky's drive to left in the third inning to rob Dick of another extra-base blow. Parton and Guley led the locals at bat with two for three, followed by Romonosky's two for four, Fred Williams, McNew and Hamilton also hit safely. W. Bollinger paced Cartersville with two for three. Harlan Partee started on the hill for the locals but was replaced by Tom Hamilton in the fourth frame and he blanked the Stars the rest of the game.

Next Sunday the Mt. Carmel team will be in Harrisburg with either Gene Trammell or Bill McNew pitching for the Merchants.

Pop Warner, Famous West Coast College Grid Coach, Near Death

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Glenn Scohey (Pop) Warner, one of football's most famous coaches, lingered near death today in Palo Alto Hospital.

He has been confined there since undergoing a cancer operation in July. In recent days, his doctors had reported him in a steadily worsening condition.

The 83-year-old coach, who revolutionized the game of football with his single and double wing offensive formations, was permitted to receive a number of visitors Monday.

Danville Wins First Of Playoff Contests

CLINTON, Iowa (AP)—Danville held a one-game edge over Clinton today in the Shughnessy playoff finals of the Mississippi-Ohio Valley baseball league.

The Dans whitewashed Clinton 6-0 Sunday in the opening game of the best three out of five series behind the four-hit pitching of Johnny Correll.

Red Top Davis Beats Savoie, Wants Title Bout with Saddler

NEW YORK (AP)—Featherweight contender Teddy (Red Top) Davis is "fed up" with fighting lightweights like Armand Savoie, whom he defeated Friday night, so Teddy's manager is laying plans today to "force" a title fight with featherweight champion Sandy Saddler.

"Saddler is the only man I want to meet now," says Davis in the wake of his 10-round decision over Savoie in Monday night's widely-televvised bout at St. Nicholas Arena.

Mushky Salow, manager of the fourth-ranking feather contender from Hartford, Conn., backed up his fighter and said he plans to send a petition to the convention of the National Boxing Association at Cleveland, Ohio, next week, asking the NBA to "force" Saddler to risk his crown against Davis.

Davis, who weighed 133 1/4 pounds to Savoie's 136, simply proved too fast and too persistent for the veteran Canadian, planting his left jab in Savoie's face throughout the fight and scoring heavily in the infighting. In the two best punching sessions, in the fourth and eighth rounds, Davis had the better of the going, although there were no knockdowns.

Another widely-televvised bout Monday night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena produced a draw between Jesse Turner of St. Louis and Ted Olla of Milwaukee, Wis.

Eldorado Loses at Cambria, 8 to 4

The Eldorado Merchants traveled to Cambria Sunday and absorbed an 8-4 defeat. This marked the first loss of the season to a southern Illinois team by the Eldorado aggregation.

Eldorado scored two runs in the first inning and single tallies in the 5th and 8th. Cambria counted four times in the opening frame, and added lone tallies in the 2nd, 5th, 7th and 8th innings.

Woodard and Malone divided the pitching for Eldorado, with Beasley catching.

Next Sunday Eldorado will host the Harrisburg Nash on the Raleigh town park diamond. The two teams are managed by brothers, Gene Stone for Nash and James "Red" Stone for Eldorado.

Labor Day Attendance Total Higher Than Last Year in Big League Parks

NEW YORK (AP)—Attendance at major league baseball games on Labor Day was more than 30,000 higher than last year.

Huge turnouts at Milwaukee's County Stadium and New York's Yankee Stadium paced the turn-out parade as 194,906 fans paid their way into big-league parks Monday. A year ago, the total was only 164,714.

County Stadium had the biggest crowd of the holiday, 43,207, to see the Braves take over second place. At Yankee Stadium, 39,959 fans saw the Yankees try in vain to gain ground on the Cleveland Indians.

A clothes sprinkler filled with liquid shampoo is handy for washing the children's hair.

Nash Downs Indiana 9's For No. 14, 15

Harrisburg Nash chalked up victories 14 and 15 over the Labor Day week-end, extending their present winning streak to eight in a row. The locals downed Princeton, Indiana's All-Stars, 7-3, on the latter's diamond Sunday, and then edged Evansville Orkin, 8-6, Monday at Harrisburg.

At Princeton, Don Wallace opposed Ray Lutz, Evansville youth who spent the early part of the season pitching for Waco, Texas, a Class B team. Each hurler faced only 36 batters, and each fanned six. Wallace gave eight hits, walked two. Lutz was touched for 10 hits and walked three.

Nash scored in the second on Fulkerson's hit and a throwing error. Princeton tied the count in their half of the second on a three base Nash error and a single. Harrisburg picked up two more runs in the third on Ziegler's double. Fulkerson's triple and a sacrifice. The All-Stars added runs in the fifth and seventh, but Nash scored in the seventh and tied the game with three in the ninth.

Nash completed four double plays during the afternoon. Fulkerson and Ziegler led the hitting attack with three and two blows respectively.

Against Evansville Monday, "Kiki" Parker turned in a fine relief job to help the locals to victory. Starter Jack Nolen developed a pulled muscle in the second inning, and allowed four hits and four runs in the one and a third innings he worked.

Parker gave up seven hits in the rest of the struggle, but Evansville scored only twice. Nash clubbed the Orkin hurler for 14 hits in massing their eight runs.

Evansville tallied one in the first, three in the second and single runs in the sixth and eighth. Harrisburg picked up two in the first, and knotted the game in the third with two more tallies.

After the Orkin's went ahead with their sixth inning run, the Nash blasted out four counters on five hits in their portion of the frame. Harrison started the big inning with a triple. Parker singled and raced home on Ken Nolen's line drive homer. Zeigler and Karnes followed this with singles, the former scoring on Fulkerson's sacrifice fly.

Zeigler's three hits led the Nash. Next Sunday Nash will travel to Raleigh to tangle with the Eldorado Merchants. Practice sessions will be Wednesday and Friday nights at the city park diamond.

Tips on Poison Ivy

Given by Professor

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Many persons who haven't the slightest idea what poison ivy looks like are getting a chance to learn — painlessly.

As an aid to the uninitiated, Dr. William M. Harlow, professor of wood technology at the State College of Forestry here, has erected a sign alongside a certain vine growing up a tree on the campus. It reads, "Poison Ivy."

Shoes or other apparel that have come in contact with the plant may carry the poison around for more than a year before infecting the surprised wearer, Harlow noted.

He also said that few persons are immune to poison ivy, although many may think they are. Some who handle it for years in perfect safety suddenly become hospital cases.

Creator of 'Mutt And Jeff' Dies; to Continue Comic

NEW YORK — Harry Con-Way (Bud) Fisher, 69, creator of Mutt and Jeff, died of cancer at Roosevelt Hospital today.

Fisher's "Mutt," said to be the first comic strip, appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle in 1907.

Fisher incorporated in it his tips on the races at a bay area track. He had what was described as a "phenomenal streak of luck," mushrooming Mutt's bankroll daily, and the newspaper's circulation rose with it.

Jeff joined the cartoon later, resulting in the now-famous title, "Mutt and Jeff."

The Bell Syndicate, which distributes the comic strip, said strips for several months had been completed before Fisher died. It said the comic will be carried on by an assistant who has worked with Fisher for many years.

Fisher was born in Chicago, April 3, 1885. He attended Hyde Park High School there, ran on a famous relay team, and then went West with aspirations for a prize fighting career.
